Four Good Sellers

THE HUSBANDS OF EDITH

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON $1.25

Author of "GRAUSTARK," "JANE CABLE," etc.

"It is a rich find. Not a sentence drags, and it is wholesome, clean and ripping, with an exquisite humor and fragrant vivacity. Bravo for McCutcheon. He has done nothing better."—News and Courier, Charleston, S. C.

THE FAIR MOON OF BATH

By ELIZABETH ELLIS $1.50

Author of "BARBARA WINSLOW, Rebel"

One of the six best sellers for April.

MY LADY OF CLEEVE

By PERCY J. HARTLEY $1.50

A vivid, stirring and breathless tale of romance and adventure.

MERYL

By WILLIAM TILLINGHAST ELDRIDGE $1.50

Author of "HILMA"

"Meryl should be dedicated to tiresome journeys, sleepy evenings and dull days, for while one reads it time will be neither dull or slow."

—Evening Leader.

PUBLISHED MAY 15th

THE HALF-SMART SET

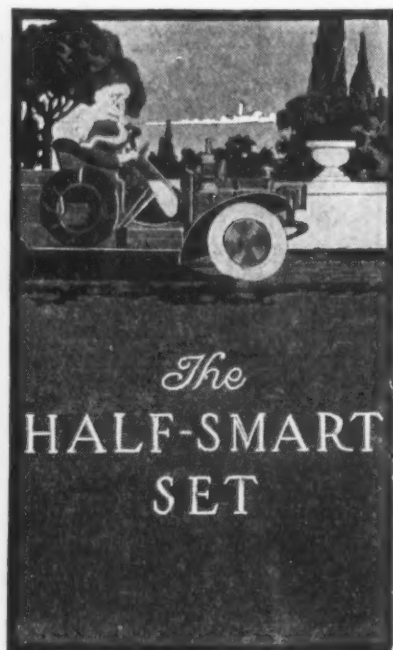

A novel dealing with people who are not in the "smart set," but who act out a similar program—with week-end parties, motor trips abroad, and all the costly pleasures. Though published anonymously, it is the work of an author who knows this life and whose books have sold many editions.

Patricia, the heroine of the story, is a captivating young person, innocent, shrewd, naive, daring, and altogether piquante. The unfolding of the strength and sweetness of her character amid insidious influences is the theme of the story, which is exceedingly clever, wholesome, and of strong emotional interest.

Illustrated in color by Armand Both.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50 postpaid.

TWO NOTABLE

DELILAH OF THE SNOWS

A NOVEL OF THE KLONDIKE

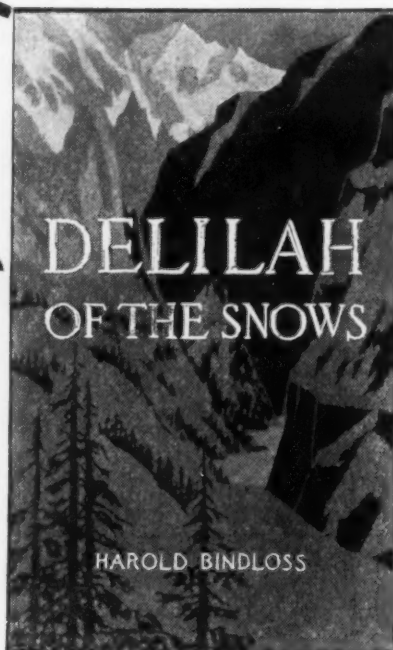

By HAROLD BINDLOSS

Author of "Alton of Somasco," "For Jacinta," etc.

Another stirring Bindloss book, with all the drive of action and zest of life of this author's work.

It contains a romance of fresh charm and characters of unusual interest. The unselfish comradeship of two men, who get the gold fever, and suffer hardship and despair together, and the consequences of their finding themselves in love with same woman, is told with the keen insight into character.

The reader will be puzzled to foresee the end of the story, which has many unexpected turns. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50, postpaid.

Gentlemen: Am I to get the Book Lists this month?

You will remember that I ordered them, and as my book trade is not doing very much just now, I depend upon the Lists to increase my business.

Yours truly,

☞ The above indicates the way one dealer is meeting "dull times." It is a sensible way, too, because it is not only the best but the least expensive way possible.

☞ During "dull times" the publisher spends little for advertising, and the general public does not know what new books are coming out. If the retail bookseller expects to do any business at all he must keep his customers posted about the new books.

☞ Fortunately he can now do this for a few dollars each month, and do it well. The TRADE BOOK LIST solves the problem.

☞ Give your business the benefit of this "boost." It will not cost much, and will help in more ways than one.

Public versus Bookseller

A few weeks past we canvassed the book-trade tendering our new illustrated work, in 24 parts, entitled:

WOMEN OF ALL NATIONS

Every bookseller, wholesale and retail, assured us that the public would not purchase any work issued in parts, and declined to place an order.

When our first number was ready, a fortnight past, we inserted two advertisements in New York newspapers. The response was immediate. By every mail, in increasing volume, we received cash orders. Since delivery of the first part, we have been in constant receipt of letters enclosing checks and money orders for the succeeding numbers as issued.

We did not want this cash business, it belonged to the bookseller. But we did wish to demonstrate that the public will buy anything that is good value, well presented. In this instance, the fact that a very expensive work could be purchased in 25 cent payments, met with instant appreciation.

The sale of the first part ensures that of the remaining twenty-three without further effort. Here is a money-making proposition actually demonstrated. Why not put prejudice aside, make a trial, and convince yourself?

The newest Williamson novel—The prettiest romantic novel of the season

The Chaperon

By C. N. and A. M.
WILLIAMSON

A romance along the lines of "THE LIGHTNING CONDUCTOR," and, if anything better.

The first in its field—a motor-boat, not an automobile, story.

We believe The Chaperon will prove the romantic novel of the season. We also believe it will sell better than any previous Williamson story.

Your order on the return card will be filled promptly. Please designate if posters and extra jackets for display are desired.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE RING?

A novel of the big red game of life, played to the ultimate limit with masculine bravado and feminine finesse.

A sapphire ring, of antique design and immense value, has been stolen while on private exhibition in San Francisco. It then comes into the possession of a wealthy society girl. In spite of herself, and in spite of her fiancé she falls in love with the man whom she knows to be the thief—a man character among the most striking in fiction.

NOTES IN SEASON.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just ready "The Half-Smart Set," and the new book by Harold Bindloss, entitled "Delilah of the Snows," referred to in our issue of May 9.

B. W. HUEBSCH announce that Inez Haines Gilmore's "June Jeopardy," publication of which has several times been postponed, will be brought out at once. The story, the entire action of which takes place in one night, in and around Boston, has to do with the theft of a diamond necklace.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY will publish shortly "Paid in Full," a novel by John W. Harding, taken from Eugene Walter's popular play: "The Profligate," by Arthur Hornblow, author of "The Lion and the Mouse," etc.; "The Warrens of Virginia," novelized from the play by George Carey Eggleston; "Strongheart," from the play by Frederick R. Burton; "Wyoming," by William MacLeod Raine; and "Raw Gold," by Bertrand W. Sinclair.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready Maurice Hewlett's widely-discussed short story, "The Spanish Jade," which, in deference to the author's wishes, they are bringing out at ninety cents, though the English edition is priced at six shillings. They have also just ready "The Romance of the Reaper," by Herbert N. Casson, author of "The Romance of Steel," etc., a wonderful story of our most useful business—making clear why Americans monopolize the harvester business of the world.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish on June 6 "The Duty of Being Beautiful," another little book by Mrs. Sara A. Hubbard, who, in her "Catchwords of Cheer" and "The Religion of Cheerfulness" presented her uplifting and practical philosophy of optimism in a simple and suggestive manner. In her new book Mrs. Hubbard has striven for "the oneness of beauty of character and happiness," and shows the striving after both to be innate in humanity. Because she finds it existing everywhere, she argues that it is the duty of every one to acquire it.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week three new scientific works—"Leather Trades Chemistry," a practical manual on the analysis of materials and finished products, by S. R. Trotman; "Mechanical Engineering for Beginners," by R. S. McLaren, and "Telegraphic Systems," by A. Crotch. John Reed Scott's latest romance, "The Princess Dehra," in which we meet again the characters of his dashing success, "The Colonel of the Red Huzzars," is announced for publication on May 23. Advance orders for this new novel are reported to have been unusually heavy.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish on the 22d inst. "The New York of Yesterday—a descriptive narrative of Old Bloomingdale, as set forth in the development of its first religious society, the Bloomingdale Reformed Church," by Hopper Striker Mott, who tells the story of that portion of the old city of New York which lay between Twenty-third and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Streets, on the west side of Manhattan Island, and used to be known as Old Bloomingdale; "Wanderings in Ireland," by Michael Myers Shoemaker, an interesting narrative of travels through a fine country; also, "A Week in the White House with Theodore Roosevelt," by William Bayard Hale, an intimate study of a remarkable subject.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

For first issue see American Catalogue, 1901.

Bazin, René. The nun, (L'isolée;) from the French of René Bazin. N. Y., Scribner, 1908. 243 p. O. cl., $1.

A story of France which illustrates the far-reaching effects of the new law of separation of church and state. A little school conducted by five sisters at Lyons is closed by the police. There is no place for the nuns to go, as every "mother-house" is crowded with refugees. Four of the women find worldly occupations; the fifth, Pascale, a mere girl, beautiful and sincerely desiring to resist temptation, has a sad and painful experience, which is told with characteristic French candor.

Bennett, W: H.; ed. Religion of the post-exilic prophets, 586-300 B.C. N. Y., Scribner, [imported,] 1908. 12+396 p. 12°, (Literature and religion of Israel; ed. by Dr. Ja. Hastings.) cl., $2 net.

Benson, Arthur Christopher. The school-master: a commentary upon the aims and methods of an assistant-master in a public school; with an introd. to the American edition. N. Y., Putnam, 1908. 10+169 p. D. cl., $1.25 net.

The writer of the "Upton letters" is known as an experienced educator. For seven years he was an Eton boy, and then, after leaving Cambridge, he returned to Eton as a master, and remained there in that capacity for nearly twenty years. The kind of teaching with which this book concerns itself by way of definition and criticism is the Eton-Cambridge type, but, as Mr. Benson says, the aims and hopes and difficulties of the teacher are much the same in all schools, and the ideas advanced here regarding his profession hold as true for America as for England.

Black, W: Harmon. The real Wall Street: an understandable description of a purchase, a sale, a "short sale"; with forms, definitions, rules, etc. N. Y., Corporations Organization, 1908. c. 70 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., $1.

Author is former commissioner of accounts of Greater New York and author of "New York and New Jersey corporations." Member of New York Bar.

Bland, Mrs. Edith Nesbit, [Mrs. Hubert N. Bland.] The enchanted castle. N. Y., Harper, 1908. c. '06, '07. 297 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

This is a pure fairy tale, full of quaint impossibilities and delightful humor. Its characters are three children, two boys and a girl, who vividly recall the small people of the author's delightful "Wouldbegoods." They have the most surprising adventures through the finding of a magic "wishing-ring."

Britton, Nathaniel Lord, and Shafer, J: Adolph. North American trees: being descriptions and illustrations of the trees growing independently of cultivation in North America, north of Mexico and the West Indies. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1908. 10+894 p. il. pls. Q. (American nature ser.; group 1, Classification of nature.) cl., $7 net, boxed.

Mr. Britton is Director-in-chief of the New York Botanical Garden and Mr. Shafer is custodian of the Museums of the New York Botanical Garden. The book is a thoroughly well made one in every particular, illustrated by nearly 800 reproductions of photographs showing the character of the foliage, flowers and fruit and the general aspect of certain species of trees. They were mostly made from specimens in the museums or herbarium of the New York Botanical Garden, and the descriptions have been drawn up from these specimens and from field observation. The Jesup collection of North American woods at the American Museum of Natural History has furnished much information relative to characteristics of woods and barks. Technical language has been avoided as far as possible.

Among the great tenor's drawings are many of his male comrades in art, most of the rulers of the earth, and a good many members of the New Italian colony in New York City.
- Churchill, W: Weather words of Polynesia. N. Y., American Anthropological Assoc., 1907, [1908.] 98 p. 8°, (Memoirs of the American Anthropological Assoc.) pap., 80 c.
- Churchill, Winston. Mr. Crewe's career. N. Y., Macmillan, 1908. c. 9+498 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.
The author of "Coniston" writes a story American to the core. There is a great railroad in the background, a corporation given to practices which in recent times have been the cause of so much heated discussion. The two interests of love and political reform run side by side. Mr. Crewe is a fussy, self-centered millionaire, a pompous humbug, whose vanity the president of the railroad and his henchmen turn to their most unscrupulous uses. A father for years accustomed to the "management" of railroads and his son, determined to be a free and honest lawyer, are excellent foils in showing both sides of the workings of American self-government and self-interest.
- Clark, Galen. The big trees of California: their history and characteristics; il. from photographs. [Oakland, Cal.,] Galen Clark, 1907, [1908.] c. 104 p. por. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
A companion volume to "The Indians of the Yosemite Valley." The author's knowledge of the botany of the Sierras is accurate, a knowledge gleaned from close, personal observation.
- Clark, Galen. Indians of the Yosemite Valley and vicinity; with an appendix of useful information for Yosemite visitors; il. by Chris. Jorgensen and from photographs. 3d ed. [Oakland, Cal.,] Galen Clark, 1907, [1908.] c. 112 p. por. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
The author, a pioneer of the Yosemite and discoverer of the Mariposa Big Tree Grove, first visited the wonderful valley and the Indians who inhabited it in 1855. He is now 90 years of age and writes his experiences at the earnest request of many friends.
- Clifford, Clifford Robbins. Color value. N. Y., Clifford & Lawton, [1908.] c. '07. 95 p. il. col. map, 8°, cl., *$1 net.

Author is commissioner on the currency of the Philippines and member of the commission on international exchange. It has been decided to publish this volume separately, at a reduced price, because of its pertinency to the present discussion of the currency problem in the United States. It discusses fully the theory of a banknote currency and the evolution of modern banking practice toward the idea of a central bank.

The adventures of a soldier-of-fortune, who, through a clever plot, is decoyed out of England to a "toy-kingdom," called Zollenstein, which is said to be bounded on two sides by France and Germany, but which does not appear on any map of Europe. He has been brought to Zollenstein to personate the missing heir to the throne, the king having died suddenly. There are the usual number of intrigues, and the beautiful woman to whom he loses his heart, with the unexpected ending—that he is really the missing heir and not the adventurer he thought himself.

"The present work is a continuation and enlargement of 'The true history of the American Revolution,' published some years ago in one volume. That work, while being a brief general account of the contest, dwelt more particularly on certain phases of the struggle which had been omitted or ignored by the historians. It soon became obvious that it did not go far enough, that the original plan should be extended and carried out in more detail, and that the whole mass of original evidence in libraries and historical societies should be made accessible and revealed to the public in as complete a manner as possible."—Preface.

- Higinbotham, J: U. Three weeks in Holland and Belgium. Chic., Reilly & Britton Co., 1908. c. 9-275 p. pls. D. cl., $1.50.
 A companion volume to the author's "Three weeks in Europe," being a practical guide book for the amateur traveller. The author takes the Dutch towns as he saw them, enumerates the points of interest in each, with critical remarks, and gives any historical fact connected with it. All the Rubens and Rembrandt pictures are listed in the right places, and all the celebrated churches and cathedrals are mentioned, with an interesting bit of gossip. The rapid way in which the writer travelled is shown by his itinerary. The illustrations are taken from life.

 Author is member of the Institution of Naval Architects and surveyor to Lloyd's Register of Shipping. The present edition has been thoroughly revised and some new and instructive matter added; also two new plates representing different structural designs for two large single-deck vessels.
- Horace: Quintus Horatius Flaccus: the Roman poet presented to modern readers; ed. by Dr. C: Loomis Dana and J: Cotton Dana. Woodstock, Vt., Elm Tree Press, 1908. c. 150 p. il. pors. O. cl., $3.
 Mr. John Cotton Dana is librarian of the Free Public Library of Newark, New Jersey. With Dr. C. L. Dana, of New York, he has gathered a great deal of new material bearing on the life of Horace, and especially on the life of the day, believing that no one can appreciate Horace who has not studied the atmosphere in which the poet created. The illustrations are printed in soft tints and fittingly supplement the erudite type.
- Horne, C: F. The technique of the novel: the elements of the art, their evolution and present use. N. Y., Harper, 1908. c. 10+285 p. D. cl., $1.50 net.

The author is assistant professor of English in the College of the City of New York. The aim is to make clear the principles that underlie the most popular form of literature—the novel. With this end in view, his work traces historically and by the aid of constant illustration the development of the art of novel writing. The book is divided into two parts—"The origin of the novel" and "The development of the modern novel." Appendix: A bibliography to accompany text (being a course of reading) (6 p.). Index.

The author has not allowed himself to be influenced by French laudation of Poe's work or American condemnation of his behavior. His lively first chapter is corrective both of sentimentality and of pharisaical delight in petty faults. In the preface he expresses a desire to see Poe's biography and letters put together by some one strong enough to ignore no fact and large enough not to follow too creepingly the surviving documents. Bibliography (4 p.).

Oppenheim, E: Phillips. The avenger; il. by Alec Ball. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1908. c. '07, '08. 297 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

It was late at night when Herbert Wrayson, a young English editor, unlocked and proceeded to open the door to his bachelor apartments located on the outskirts of London. On entering he was amazed to discover an elegantly dressed, refined girl. Mysterious things follow which culminate in the discovery of a murdered man. Peculiar circumstances cause Wrayson to suspect the girl of being the murderer, but he shields her. Gradually it becomes evident that the murder was not an ordinary one but the result of an issue in which a king and queen were concerned. At last the person who murdered Morris Barnes, and also another man, is revealed, and it proves to be—the avenger.

The author of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," etc., has embodied within this novel a chapter from the history of the bitter struggle between trade-unions and capital. Richard Melton, the virtual owner of Meltonville, a small milltown, represents the tyrant, whose chief aim in life is personal gain. The mill hands, on being notified of a reduction in their wages, decide to strike. Violence ensues, which results in the destruction of life and property. The final readjustment and the romance make the story.

Rives, Amélie, (Princess Troubetzkoy.) The golden rose: the romance of a strange soul. N. Y., Harper, 1908. c. 226 p. D. cl., *$1.25.

An exquisite, exotic woman, who has endured the misery of unhappy marriage, is dominated by a mystical belief that love must have no physical fulfillment. This woman comes to love one man utterly, and he—in the ecstasy of midsummer, under the spell of a beautiful country home—is momentarily able to stand on the woman's high ground of Platonic passion. Called abroad, from leaving her with wild regret he returns—indifferent. A chance encounter in a New York theatre lobby tells him his dream is over. "The golden rose" is the symbol of the woman's unrealized dream.

A stirring romance with its scene laid in the troublous times in England when so many broken gentlemen foregathered with the "knights of the road"; when a man might lose part of his purse to his opponent at "White's" over the dice, and the next day be relieved of the rest of his money on some lonely heath at the point of a pistol in the hand of the self-same gambler. Author is director and professor of mechanical and civil engineering in the Polytechnic School of Engineering, Regent Street, London; has written "Motors and motoring," etc. In arranging the contents of the book the author has devoted the first five chapters to the drawing part of the subject and, guided by his extensive experience, he has treated it in such a way that an intelligent beginner should find it easy to learn the art of making working drawings of simple pieces. The draughtsman's art, however, is considered exhaustively so as to be of value to the advanced student also.

Mr. Thorndike is professor of English literature in Columbia University and author of "The influence of Beaumont and Fletcher on Shakspeare." This is the first attempt to give the history of English tragedy through the whole course of its development, unencumbered by the biographies of authors or any collateral matters whatever, save those that bear upon the growth of this dramatic species. After the preliminary discussion of definitions, the writer takes account of the origins in classical and mediæval drama, describes the rise of a specifically English type of tragedy in the time of Elizabeth, and thence follows its course, observing and explaining its phases and varieties, through the Restoration, the eighteenth century, and the romantic movement, down to the acting of Browning by Macready.

This English story tells of Joseph Fortescue, who died from shock received on hearing of the total loss of all his money and also that of others which had been entrusted to him. Kenneth, his son, in accordance with his father's last words, removes from the safe a letter addressed to him. On opening the letter he is disappointed to find nothing but blank sheets of paper. One of the maids is suspected of having stolen the original letter. Very unexpectedly, and from a peculiar quarter, the letter is brought to light—but the most important word has been blotted out. The balance of the story hangs on the discovery of the missing word.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 16, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade Bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE PERIOD OF RECOVERY.

WE have several times pointed out, since the crisis of last fall, how well the booktrade has held its own amongst other trades in the face of financial depression. In the latter part of last year, and in the early part of this year, there was evidence, indeed, that the booktrade was doing quite as well as a year before, and in some respects better. Within the past few weeks, however, the booktrade has felt more than before the indirect influence of the depression, and there has been more or less anxiety as to the future outlook. Business is reported bad—that is, purchases are more restricted and collections are more difficult. It should be remembered that at this season of the year there is always a lull and a relative depression in the booktrade; and that this year this depression is apt to be exaggerated by the uncertainties of a presidential campaign, although this last is more a "bogie" than a reality. It nevertheless remains true, we think, that the booktrade is doing not less well, probably better, than other trades.

But it is also true that the whole country and all callings, except possibly that of the farmer, are passing through a period of recovery. That means that everything is on a lower and safer level, but with an upward trend. It was weeks and months before the financial situation was cleared by the sale on the stock exchanges of securities which had been pledged as collateral. This process has probably been completed. The stringency in the money market is a thing of the past, and there is now capital seeking investment, however timid it may be in actually making investments. In our own trade, retail booksellers are feeling the general tendency of economy and buying from hand to mouth, so that the publishers' large sales are less, while jobbers' small sales aggregate more. We are all feeling the economy which comes, necessarily and wholesomely, after extravagance. This is as it should and must be, and the book-trade has no reason to complain or to feel afraid of the near future.

We can take little stock in prosperity forced by legislation or promoted by "sunshine" societies or "hurrah" methods. But the fundamental fact is that the greatest producing body, the agricultural class, is prosperous, and that because of this the other classes which ultimately depend on this foundation will again become prosperous as soon as normal conditions are restored. No one knows what may be the results of the nominating conventions or of the presidential election; but, on the other hand, no one really fears that the country will be in danger by any result within present possibilities. The outlook is good, and the fact that we are slowed down for the moment is the best evidence that everything is really going well.

SPANISH BOOKTRADE USAGES.

IN reply to the following questions addressed by the manager of the American Publishers' Association to E. Bailly-Balliere, of the Spanish Booktrade Association at Madrid:

(1) Is a list obtainable of publishers of newspapers, periodicals and books in Madrid?

(2) How can information be obtained of the financial standing of such publishers?

(3) What method of payment (where accounts are on a cash-on-delivery or cash-with-order basis) is acceptable to Spanish publishers and booksellers; part cash with order or draft on New York banker on presentation of bill of lading? Mr. Bailly-Balliere replied as follows:

(1) The list of publishers of newspapers, periodicals and books in Madrid will be found in "The Commercial Guide of Madrid, published by Bailly-Balliere & Co., of Madrid, at 6.75 pesetas.

(2) Information can be obtained from the Asociacion de la Libreria Española, at the rate of 1 peseta for each inquiry.

(3) The condition of sale to booksellers is generally by draft, at three, six, nine and twelve months after receipt of the merchandise according to the amount of the orders and the standing of the firm. When books are sent on consignment, an accounting is made semi-annually of the number of books sold.

THE WORK OF THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY.

THE Board of Managers of the American Baptist Publication Society in their eighty-fourth annual report state that "while most lines of trade have suffered severe setbacks during the past year, the Society's business has apparently been unaffected, showing a substantial increase each month, the total for the year being $61,282.75."

The heaviest expense borne by the Publishing Department is that of maintaining Branch Houses in certain sections of the country where the Baptist constituency is not large enough to make their business profitable. Besides this the Publishing Department bears all the administrative and other expenses of the Missionary Department; of keeping up the work of the National Teacher-training Institute; of publishing the periodicals, books, etc., of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, etc., all told, at least $30,000 yearly.

Continuing, the report says that, "while the business of selling our own books during the year has been successful, the conditions which continue to exist in the general booktrade render that part of our business unsatisfactory and unprofitable. To conduct this department it is necessary to carry a large stock of miscellaneous books, and thus tie up much capital in a business which is risky and lacking in profit. It was hoped that the organization of the American Publishers' Association and the American Booksellers' Association several years ago would result in establishing the trade on a sound commercial basis, but these hopes have not been realized. No Moses has yet arisen to lead the disorganized tribes of booksellers out of the wilderness of cut prices and discounts. We shall therefore in all probability be obliged to curtail this department of our business and turn our attention, as we have indicated above, more largely than ever to the exploitation of our own publications.

"Despite all these and other difficulties with which we are obliged to contend, the outlook for our business as a whole was never more assuring. We have nothing but the most optimistic anticipations for the coming year.

"The aggregate receipts from sales in the Publishing Department for the year are $725,978.40; merchandise, $376,678.36; periodicals, $349,300.04. Last year the aggregate receipts in this department were $664,695.65; merchandise, $318,840.25; periodicals, $315,855.40, showing an increase of $61,282.75. This increase, considering the business depression during the six later months of the year, is very gratifying."

Concerning its new building at the northwest corner of Seventeenth and Chestnut Streets, in Philadelphia, which the Society expects to occupy in June, the report says: "It is seven stories in height, forty-four feet on Chestnut Street and one hundred and twenty-two on Seventeenth Street. It is of the best steel construction, with Mt. Airy granite walls to the second floor, and light Kittanning bricks and terra cotta from the second to the seventh floors. It is fitted with every modern appliance, and furnished throughout with all conveniences in the way of light, water and heat. The first floor and basement will be occupied by the retail departments of the Society. On the second floor will be the executive and editorial offices. On this floor, also, there will be a hall sufficiently large to seat about two hundred and fifty persons, and adjoining this, and opening into it, a Board Room for the meetings of the Board and other organizations. The five upper floors are offered for rent, and a large number of the offices on these floors have already been taken. The building, when fully completed and furnished, will cost about $190,000, making the entire cost of lot and building about $400,000. . . . At a recent meeting of your Board it was decided to call the new structure the Roger Williams Building, in honor of the man who was the first in this country, if not in the world, to define and put in practice the principles of religious liberty."

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY RETRENCHES.

ECONOMY was the keynote of the annual meeting of the American Tract Society, held on May 13, in the Marble Collegiate Church, and William Phillips Hall, president of the society, predicted through it a saving of $20,000 a year. Three secretaryships were abolished, resulting in a saving of half of the $20,000. He recommended the sale of the building owned by the society at No. 150 Nassau Street. It is valued at $2,000,000, and is mortgaged for $1,250,000. Mr. Hall said the executive committee was in favor of the sale.

The report of Louis Tag, the treasurer, showed, deducting all expenses, a balance in the treasury of $217.53 for 1907. Mr. Shearer, the secretary, reported publications in twenty-three languages issued during the year and distribution of printed matter costing $21,807.07.

The meeting was on the eighty-third anniversary of the society's organization.

WHEN BOOKS WILL BE NO MORE.

DR. MARAGO, of Paris, according to newspaper report, is photographing the human voice, and with a powerful magnifying glass is able to read the records of a person talking. It is maintained by certain scientists, whose names are not given, that these voice photographs eventually will take the place of writing and alphabets altogether. Stenography, too, would be abolished. Instead of writing a letter the sender would talk into the microphone, pull out the strip of zigzags when through and post it. Forgery would be out of the question, for it is absolutely impossible to deceive the electric needle, which faithfully records every shade of tone. For books and newspapers the idea is to have a conventional imitation of zigzags of the various vowels and consonants in the form of type, which will be set in lines like ordinary printed matter. Telephone conversations would be as binding as a written contract to-day.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING CO. SUCCEEDS GEORGE W. OGILVIE.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, of Akron, Ohio, has just completed the purchase of the books and bookplates of George W. Ogilvie and George W. Ogilvie & Company, of Chicago. By this deal The Saalfield Publishing Company becomes owner of, and will hereafter manufacture and publish, one of the largest lines of Teachers' Bibles made in this country. This line, which in the future will be known as the Saalfield Teachers' Bibles, are made in all styles of binding to the number of forty-six editions, including the new Self-Pronouncing, Red-letter Bibles that have become so popular. They likewise have references, concordance, helps to the study of the Bible, etc., with several editions printed on India paper.

The largest part of the purchase, however, is that of the famous "Webster Imperial Dictionary" and its various abridgments, known as "Webster's Inter-Collegiate Dictionary," "Webster's Adequate Dictionary," "Webster's Sterling Dictionary" and "Webster's Brief Imperial Dictionary."

The miscellaneous publications of Mr. Ogilvie were also included in the purchase by The Saalfield Publishing Company, so that the transaction means no small addition to the already large list of this firm.

Mr. Ogilvie's retirement from active business is due to consideration for his health, and is certain to be only temporary.

A. C. McCLURG & CO.'S WHOLESALE BUILDING.

A. C. McCLURG & Co.'s wholesale building at 457-477 Ohio Street, within a stone's throw of Lake Michigan, Chicago, is practically completed and hereafter all orders will be filled from there. The building is four stories high, 240 feet long and 100 feet deep, the four stories thus affording a total floor space of 120,000 square feet. One floor of this building has over six miles of running shelving, which gives a fair idea of the immensity of the structure. The building is of brick and reinforced concrete, of heavy mill construction, and equipped throughout with a sprinkler system, and divided by fire doors of approved construction.

The offices of President Zimmerman and of O. T. McClurg will be moved to this building, and the buyers, Mr. Fay, Mr. Lehman, Mr. Hewitt, Mr. Walduck and the others will have suitable quarters there. The book-keeping and accounting departments and the treasurer's office will likewise be found there in the future. The vacated floors at 215 Wabash Avenue are to be rented.

A restaurant will be installed in the basement which will take care of the two hundred and fifty odd employees. Like every other department, the commissary will be strictly modern in every particular.

In talking about your store, don't fail to make it clear why people should patronize your store.—A. SCHREYER.

DR. GOULD'S "CONCERNING LAFCA-DIO HEARN" DENOUNCED.

CONSIDERABLE feeling has been aroused in certain quarters over the publication of Dr. George M. Gould's book, "Concerning Lafcadio Hearn." Some of Hearn's friends, among them Ellwood Hendrick, have tried to induce Dr. Gould and his publishers, George W. Jacobs & Co., to withdraw the book from circulation, claiming that the memory of Hearn had been villified, and that unless their demands were complied with an appeal would be made to the courts. Dr. Gould and his publishers have maintained silence since they were first approached in the matter on May 10. Mr. Hendrick, in defense of Hearn, prints in the New York Times for May 14 several letters from Lafcadio Hearn concerning his relations with Dr. Gould.

CAN'T HELP UNION BOOKBINDERS.

THE Central Federated Union received letters on May 9 from Comptroller Metz and other New York City officials in reply to the complaint of the Bookbinders' Union, noted in our issue for May 2, that while union American bookbinders were going idle the books for the New York Public Library were bound by an English firm which has a contract for the work. The complaints requested that the work should be given to the union bookbinders of New York.

The city officials in reply said that they had no authority over the matter, and recommended the central body to communicate with the trustees of the different corporations in charge of the libraries.

BEST-SELLING BOOKS IN ENGLAND DURING APRIL.

ACCORDING to the London Book Monthly the following books have been most in demand during April in England:

John Thadeus Delane, Editor of The Times, his life and correspondence, by A. J. Dasent.

The Duke of Gandia, a poetic drama, by Algernon Charles Swinburne.

Mr. Crewe's Career, by Winston Churchill.

Three Girls and a Hermit, by Dorothea Conyers.

The Missioner, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.

The Grey Knight, by Mrs. Henry de la Pasture. An "autumn love story"—of a hero of sixty and a heroine of sweet thirty-three.

LONDON TIMES FINED FOR LIBEL.

JOHN MURRAY, the well-known English publisher, has obtained a verdict of $37,500 damages against the London Times, which accused his firm of extortion for selling the letters of the late Queen Victoria. This case, the trade will remember, is an incident in the war between the Times and the publishers of Great Britain, which began when the Times inaugurated its book club scheme in connection with subscriptions to the paper.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM S. CRAIG, for years connected with the stationery department of J. B. Lippincott Co., died on April 19, in Atlantic City, N. J. Mr. Craig was a native of Philadelphia, Pa., and as a boy entered the employ of the J. B. Lippincott Company. In time he became head of their extensive department of bric-a-brac, stationery and decorative goods in general. When the Lippincotts withdrew from the jobbing business Mr. Craig became the agent in Philadelphia, Baltimore and contiguous territory for Eberhard Faber. Three years ago ill health obliged him to retire to Atlantic City for treatment, but he could not be cured.

LUDOVIC HALÉVY, one of the best-known and most admired of the French novelists and dramatists of his time, died in Paris on May 8. Halévy was born on January 1, 1834, in Paris. After graduating from the Lycée Louis-le-Grand he took a position in the Colonial Ministry, which he held for upwards of ten years. There Offenbach found him and induced him to write some opera librettos which were successful. These were brought out under the pseudonym of "Jules Sevières." After he left the government service he formed a literary alliance with Henri Meilhac, with whom he wrote "La Belle Helene," "Orphee aux Enfers," "Barbe Bleu," "La Grande Duchesse," etc., the music for which was composed by Offenbach; "Carmen," the music for which was composed by Bizet, Halévy's cousin, and many others. Among their plays "Frou-Frou" is probably the best-known as it was also the most successful. Among the works that Halévy wrote alone his "L'Abbe Constantin" is the most popular as it is also the most charming. It passed through 150 editions in France alone, and has appeared in numerous translations in English, German, Italian and other languages.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

TWENTY-FIVE years of ownership and editorial direction of The World by Joseph Pulitzer were celebrated on Saturday evening, May 9, in the enlarged Pulitzer building, New York City, which was thrown open to a great number of invited guests, including men of prominence in national, state and city affairs. Congratulations were received from all over the country and from foreign shores. A brilliant display of fireworks took place in City Hall Park between nine o'clock and midnight. At the stroke of twelve the huge presses, including two new ones just installed, began to turn out the last sections of the anniversary number of The World—a marvel of journalism, consisting of two hundred and fifty pages.

THE June number of McClure's Magazine will appear in a new cover of formal design, which it is proposed to use as a permanent standard. The function of a magazine cover is presumably to hold together and facilitate the handling of the pages; but this fact seems to have been very largely lost sight of in the over-development of cover decoration which has taken place during the past ten years.

The use of color and of pictorial effects has become increasingly extravagant with a view to attracting attention on the newsstands, until in the midst of the riot thus created nobody can be heard. For many years Mr. McClure has sought a design for a cover of his magazine which would have the dignity and distinction requisite to permanent use, and after frequent disappointments has met with what he believes to be a successful cover in the design of T. M. Cleland, of New York, who has made an exhaustive study of this particular problem.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

ARTHUR GOODRICH, whose new novel, "Gleam o' Dawn," has just been published by D. Appleton & Co., is thirty years old. He is a graduate of Wesleyan University, and after his graduation at the Connecticut college he took a post-graduate degree at Columbia University, having been appointed University Scholar in English there. In 1900 he joined the staff of the World's Work and helped to prepare the first number of the magazine. Later he served as managing editor of that publication for nearly three years. He left that position to ally himself with the Outing Company. In 1904 he went abroad, where, with headquarters in London, he represented editorially both Outing and The American Magazine. After the publication of his successful first novel, "The Balance of Power," Mr. Goodrich decided to devote his time to his novels, and "Gleam o' Dawn" is his latest achievement.

PERSONAL NOTES.

A SURPRISE dinner was given to Mr. A. Growoll on Thursday evening, May 14, at the Players' Club, New York City, by twenty-four of his friends, in celebration of the passage of fifty years, having made his first association with the booktrade as a boy doing vacation work in a bookstore near his home. A more full report will be given later.

W. F. P. CONNER this week—on the 15th inst.—completed forty years of service in the employ of John Wiley & Sons. Mr. Conner started as a list boy when John Wiley & Son were at 535 Broadway and nearly all of the bookstores were located below Bond Street. Mr. Conner was made entry clerk in 1874 and a year later became bookkeeper. In 1883, he also assumed the duties of cashier, a position of trust he has held ever since. Mr. Conner has a wide circle of acquaintances in the booktrade which has learned to love and honor him. We join his many friends in wishing him many "happy returns." It is interesting to note, in this connection, that the firm with which Mr. Conner has been associated so long is nearing its centennial, having been established by Charles Wiley, the father of the late John Wiley, in 1807. The first store of the firm, according to the earliest records preserved in the family, was located at No. 6 Reed [sic] Street, in New York City.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—We regret to learn that Nunn & Co., at 227 N. Howard Street, have decided to liquidate their business in the interest of their creditors, and are now selling out.

MADILL, OKLA.—Mrs. Eugene Pike is starting a circulating library and newsstand here, not at Ardmore. Mrs. Pike would be pleased to receive the latest catalogues in her line from publishers and manufacturers.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—F. F. Hansell & Bro., Ltd., booksellers and stationers, lost practically their entire stock by fire on May 6. As near as can be estimated they think they are fully covered by insurance.

NEW YORK CITY.—William T. Pitt has purchased the interest of his partner, William Thomson, in the business of the Thomson-Pitt Book Company at 947 Eighth Avenue. Mr. Pitt will continue the business under the same name at the old stand and will pay and collect all accounts of the old firm.

POST-CARD NOTES.

THE COMMERCIAL COLORTYPE COMPANY, of Chicago, has just placed on the market a series of twelve campaign post-cards advocating the nomination and election of William J. Bryan. The line is called "The Star of the West," and each card is decorated with a red star.

THE KOTO ENVELOPE COMPANY, New York, has placed on the market a combined post-card and envelope, the post-card occupying what is ordinarily the face of the envelope, while the use of a narrow rounded corner upper seam instead of diagonal seams, makes the back of the envelope available for the address and stamp.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

OTTO HARRASSOWITZ, Leipzig, has just published the "Jahrbuch der Bücherpreise," the record of European book auctions, exclusive of the English, for 1907, edited by C. Beck. The volume, which is the second of the series, has made great strides in the direction of completeness, having almost doubled in size. (10+414 p. 16°, cl., 11 marks.)

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY have just brought out the first volume of "The Magazine Subject-Index: a subject-index to seventy-nine American and English periodicals, forty-four indexed from their first issues to December 31, 1907, thirty-five indexed for the year 1907." This work, which has been compiled by Frederick Winthrop Faxon, is unique in that it indexes nothing that is included in Poole's Index, the "Library Index" or "Reader's Guide," and therefore supplies a welcome link in periodical literature, as it places seventy-nine sets of periodicals within easy reach of the public, the student and the investigator. As its name implies, it is a subject-index, not an author or title index, though in many cases the title is used as best covering the subject. (276 p. 4°, cl., $3 net; hf. mor., $4 net.) The index of the magazines included in "The Magazine Subject-Index" is continued quarterly in The Bulletin of Bibliography, and will be cumulated annually.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE convention of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers will be held in Boston during the week beginning July 20.

HENRY ALTEMUS COMPANY will presently bring out the first volume of a Wordly Wisdom Series, entitled "Worldly Wisdom from Shakespeare." Other volumes soon to be ready will contain quotations from Franklin, Lincoln and Emerson.

J. F. MEEHAN, the well-known bookseller of Bath, Eng., has written for the current issue of The [London] Album in the series of "Old-time celebrities," a sketch of the Hon. Mrs. Norton, poet and novelist, the clever granddaughter of Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have already received from Clara Louise Burnham, author of "The Opened Shutters," etc., the manuscript for a large part of her new novel, which she has named "The Leaven of Love." This will be one of the prominent publications of the coming fall.

THE action of the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association regarding the disposition of overstock, noted in our issue for April 18, refers only to stationery, not to books, as new copyright books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association cannot be disposed of in the manner proposed.

C. O. FARWELL, P. O. Box 1526, New York City, will publish early in June "An Essay on the Distribution of Livelihood," by Rossington Stanton. If the principles of this essay are correct, political economy is revolutionized, socialism nipped in the bud, a permanent foundation laid for the advance of society towards an idealistic plane, and an epoch created in the realm of thought and knowledge.

"THE Hearings before the Committees on Patents of the Senate and House of Representatives on Pending Bills to Amend and Consolidate the Acts Respecting Copyright, March 26, 27 and 28, 1908," is the title of a substantial pamphlet of 464 octavo pages just brought out by the Government Printing Office. All interested in the progress of the pending copyright bills should include this pamphlet in their reference library.

R. F. FENNO & Co. will publish on the 23d inst. "A Bottle in the Smoke," by Cooke DonCarlos, a tale of monastic and quasi-regal life in England during the reigns of Kings Henry II. and Richard I., at the close of the twelfth century. They will bring out in June an ingenious novel entitled "Vigorous Daunt, Billionaire," by Ambrose Pratt, author of "Franks, Duellist," etc., which should furnish entertainment for readers that fancy ingenious plots and hairbreadth escapes.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY will publish shortly Frederic S. Isham's new story, "The Lady of the Mount," the scene of which is laid at Mont St. Michel, in its entirety one of the most curious of medieval monuments. It is a small pyramidal island, now connected with the main land of Normandy by a causeway. It is defined on the sea-level by towered ramparts within which nestles a village. Above rise, tier over tier, the huge fortified walls and towers and the extensive buildings of a monastery, long a fortress, and afterwards used as a prison. The rock is crowned by a great granite church.

THE polls for the sale of tickets for the dinner of the American Booksellers' Association to be held on the evening of May 20 at the Aldine Association are about to close. Those who have not yet made application should lose no time in applying to Charles A. Burkhardt, at Dutton's, 31 West Twenty-third Street. Arrangements have been completed to make this dinner one long to be remembered in the annals of the trade. The programme includes addresses by Mark Twain, Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, Will Irwin, Burgess Johnson and Holman Day. The committee has also secured some very attractive souvenirs.

GINN & COMPANY announce two recent additions to the International Modern Language Series. Goethe's "Torquato Tasso" is presented in a new edition, with introduction, notes, repetitional exercises and vocabulary, by Professor Coar, of Adelphi College, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Der Schimmelreiter," by Theodor Storm, appears for the first time in a school and college edition. It is an attractive story for class use, full of the freshness and vigor of the North Sea life which it portrays. The editors, Professors Macgillivray, of Queen's University, Ontario, and Williamson, of Hobart College, New York, have provided excellent helps in the way of introduction, exercises, notes and vocabulary.

THE C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY, Boston, will publish in the early summer a new story by Frederick A. Ray, author of "Maid of the Mohawk," entitled "The Devil Worshipper." Its scenes are laid first in New York's cultured classes, and then move to the island of Martinique, where the strongest part of this human drama is played while Mt. Pelee is in eruption. Mr. Ray's vivid description of that historic and terrible event gives to the world one of the most accurate and graphic pen-pictures of that awe-inspiring spectacle ever before written. They also announce "The Jayhawkers," by John A. Martin, a story which deals with the "boom" days on the plains; and "Barselma's Kiss," by Marion Beveridge Lee, a story of love and hate, in which a premature burial figures prominently.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY publish this week "The Girl in Question," by L. C. Houk, an American love story dealing with diplomatic life and political intrigue; also, "The Creed of Buddha," by the author of "The Creed of Christ," in which the author makes an attempt to ascertain the inner faith of the founder of Buddhism, and reaches conclusions diametrically opposed to the views about "Buddha" which have long been current in the West. He believes, for example, that Buddhism, as taught by its founder, was a practical interpretation and application of the principles of the spiritual philosophy which found meditative expression in the Upanishads; and, as such, it was identical, in the last resort, with the teaching of Christ—what is essential in the creed of Buddha, as in the creed of Christ, being summed up in the question, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY will publish shortly a new book by Miss Marshall Saunders, author of that immensely popular book, "Beautiful Joe." For many years Miss Saunders, at both her city and country homes in Nova Scotia, has studied animals at close range, in their wild state as well as in captivity. Out of all this observation has grown the writing of a book entitled "My Pets," which is packed full of incidents of animal life that will fascinate the boys and girls. Furthermore, it offers a great many practical suggestions for the humane treatment and preservation of our friends in feathers and fur. In addition to the suggestions for the care of animals there will be in the back of the volume a section of blank pages headed "A Record of My Pets." On these pages the owner of the book may record the name, variety and all the facts in regard to the life of his pet animals. The book will also contain a frontispiece, six illustrations in colors and twenty-eight chapter headings made from photographs of the author's pets. The cover design and end papers will present a pleasing design of pet animals in a harmony of green, white and brown.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS is about to publish, in two volumes, a new edition of Stow's "Survey of London," an accurate reprint of the edition of 1603, Stow's true work thus being made generally accessible in the form in which he wrote it for the first time after 300 years. The "Survey" has been edited, with a long introduction and notes, by C. L. Kingsford, who was responsible for the Oxford Edition of "Chronicles of London." Mr. Kingsford has aimed in the notes to correct any errors of statement or fact which might be found, to trace as far as possible the sources of Stow's information, to supplement the text with fresh matter from Stow's own collections, and to illustrate it within a reasonable compass, by quotations from contemporary writers. A map of London circa 1600 has been specially prepared for this edition. A second volume of "The English Factories in India," by William Foster, is also announced by the Oxford University Press. Documents in the India Office and British Museum to the number of 376 have been calendared for this volume, the period covered being 1622-1623, years of considerable importance in the history of the English settlements in the East.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have in preparation a biography of Thomas Jonathan (usually called "Stonewall") Jackson, by Dr. Henry Alexander White, for many years professor of history at Washington and Lee University, which will be added to their American Crisis Series; "A Venture in 1777," a story of the Revolution, by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, which will be illustrated by Guernsey Moors and J. J. Gould; "Great Musicians," by Ernest Oldmeadow, short biographies of famous composers, with thirty-two illustrations; "Footsteps of Scott," by S. W. Crockett, author of "In the Border Country," "the story of the great romancer as revealed in his country," with a number of illustrations; "The One—and I, the Story of a Novel Wooing," a story of the Canadian Northwest; also, two books for young people—"The Four Corners at School," by Amy E. Blanchard, which will form the third volume in the Corner Series, intended for girls of from twelve to sixteen years of age; and "The Land of Never Was," a story of three little children, who, while they are blowing soap bubbles, are mysteriously imprisoned inside of one of them and thus wafted up into the sky. They drift into the Mother Goose country, where they are told why the cow jumped over the moon, why Jack and Jill went up the hill and where they gain a great deal of other odd and interesting information.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY publish this week "A Mother's Year Book," by Marion Foster Washburne, which in simple, untechnical fashion deals with the care of the infant, month by month, through the first year of its existence; "The Unicorn from the Stars," a new play written by William Butler Yeats, in collaboration with Lady Gregory, one of the staunchest supporters of the little Dublin Theatre; "Electricity: What Is It?" by Professor W. Denham Verschöyle, who presents the results of the latest research in compact and readable form; "The Age of Revolution," by the Rev. William Holden Hutton, B.D., in the Church Universal Series; "The Gospel of Pain," by Thomas J. Hardy, whose object is "to show that suffering is less a field for the exercise of philosophic speculation than the common and central ground of life itself, where alone may be found an indication of life's purpose, and consequently of its conduct;" a new edition of "What to See in England," by Gordon Home; "African Nature Notes," by F. C. Selous, the last of the big game hunters of South Africa, who is also a keen observer of nature; "Montreux," painted by J. Hardwicke Lewis and May Hardwicke Lewis, and described by Francis H. Gribble, in the series of Color Books; "Early London," by the late Sir Walter Besant, in the series entitled The Survey of London; and Bulwer Lytton's "The Last Days of Pompeii," in Macmillan's Pocket Classic Series.

It is safe to say that in the earlier part of the nineteenth century no story by an American author was so popular as "Peter Rugg, the Missing Man," written by William Austin. Originally appearing in the New England Galaxy for September 10, 1830, it was immediately widely copied over the whole country, and excited the greatest interest. Curiously enough, however, it does not appear that the story was ever printed alone in book form, and the R. E. Lee Company, Kensington Building, 687 Boylston Street, Boston, who announce the book for early publication, are the first to give the story its real due, for a more artistic bit of mystic-character sketch does not exist. A few years after the origi-inal story appeared Austin wrote a sequel to it, which, for some unaccountable reason—as it is fully as entertaining as the first part—has been almost entirely forgotten, and is known to only a very few people. This is also included in the volume, which will be tastefully printed in two colors, though the illustrations, of which there are several, will appear only in black and white. Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson adds an interesting touch to the volume in his introduction, where he speaks of William Austin as the precursor of Hawthorne, and shows to what extent the latter was influenced by Austin. They expect to bring out about June 15 "The Power Supreme," a novel of church and state in South America. The author, Francis C. Nicholas, has spent many years in Central and South America among the Indians, and in his forthcoming book gives a description of their life and the general customs of the South Americans. Part of the story is laid in the rubber country, and shows in a new light the peonage among the Indians. Another book announced for early publication is "The Debate of the Body and the Soul," taken from an early fourteenth century manuscript and modernized by the late Professor Child, of Harvard. Although the theme, the Body blaming the Soul and the Soul the Body for its shortcomings, is common to nearly every language, still the poem itself is almost unknown at the present time. Professor Child brought out a very small edition as a gift for his friends several years ago, and it is next to impossible to get a copy now. In the present reprint, for the publication of which special permission was granted by the Child heirs, Professor George Lyman Kittredge has written a most scholarly essay. The volume will be printed on English hand-made paper, Miss Marion L. Peabody, the sister of Josephine Preston Peabody, the poet, contributing the simple illustration in keeping with the subject. The edition will be limited to seven hundred and eighty copies, of which seven hundred and fifty only will be offered for sale, all plates being destroyed after printing.

MAY 21, 22, 2:30 and 8 P.M.—Fine books and mss, with the library of the late Edward H. Lowe, of London, including a Greek ms. of the 12th century; orderly book of Colonel Thomas, 1776; ms. records of the early West; rare editions of "Science and Health;" Goupil monographs, books with colored plates and extra-illustrated; early English literature, etc. (594 lots.)—Anderson.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

THE CLIQUE

(ESTABLISHED 1890)

The Recognized Organ of the Second-Hand Book Trade

THE CLIQUE is read by every bookseller who deals in old books in Great Britain, and by many in the United States and on the Continent.

THE CLIQUE advertises for about 4000 books every week; books which are wanted by its Members, and for which they are willing to pay a fair price.

THE CLIQUE is issued to booksellers only, its motto being "The Trade for THE TRADE." Booksellers can therefore report to our advertisers in confidence that they will not be "cut" by amateur dealers, who are not obliged to make their living by selling books.

THE CLIQUE is the best medium for all advertisements which appeal to booksellers, and its rates are lower than those of any tradepaper in the world.

SUBSCRIPTION 6s 6d ($1.50) per annum, post free; but as all subscriptions terminate in December subscribers may deduct 1½d (three half-pence) for each week of the year that has passed.

The Automatic System

By I. CRANE CLARK

One Hundred and Forty Pages of Common Sense that Will Revolutionize Our Laws

Intensely Interesting, Waggish in Style, Yet Seriously Reasoned

The St. Louis Times, March 6th, 1908, says: "The Automatic System of taxation proposed therein will undoubtedly give rise to a storm of discussion and debate. The book is a light on the road and will indeed have served a great purpose."

The Brooklyn (N. Y.) Eagle, April 9th, 1908, says: "He deals with many subjects intelligently and in a spirit of excellent humor. Common sense is a quality which is in evidence. Students of commerce, industry and progress might look to loftier heights without obtaining a fraction of the light that shines from Mr. Clark's lamp."

Is this Idea any Good?

A BOOKSELLER in a hustling New England city tells us he depends largely on the "Summer Reading" catalogue (published for the trade by the office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY) to keep his stock moving. He makes it a point, during the month of June, to send a copy, stamped "For the Reading Room," to every large hotel at every resort within 50 miles of his town. Summer boarders, as a rule, are omnivorous readers and this wide-awake dealer realizes the value of having his business address and announcement on a tempting catalogue arranged like a magazine, containing choice bits from the best new books. Every copy, he calculates, is read by at least 50 people. He receives orders and inquiries from many guests and often makes a valued customer for supplies throughout the year.

Does this suggest a possibility to other booksellers?

The Book that Has Created a New Character in Fiction

BRUNHILDA of ORR'S ISLAND

Price $1.50

By WILLIAM JASPER NICOLLS

You need only to read this book to be transported to the rugged shores of Casco Bay, to meet the stalwart fishermen of Orr's Island, to see the jaunty Phyllis fresh from her New York Club anchorage gliding into this quiet harbor. To know Brunhilda is to recognize a new character in fiction. Niece of a sturdy old fisherman, she breathes a charm, a freshness that at once becomes the dominant note in the book. You follow her love story breathlessly only to sigh at the end for more Brunhildas in the world of literature.

Summer Sports

Advanced Golf

By JAMES BRAID
(World's Golf Champion)

Price $3.00 net By Mail, $3.20

Invaluable to every golfer, however well-developed his game. Few experts have ever so successfully written of the real science of the game. No single phase of the sport is left undiscussed.

The Complete Lawn Tennis Player

By A. WALLIS MYERS

Price $3.00 net By Mail, $3.20

A work that delves into the lore, the history of Tennis, and interprets the various styles of playing so authoritatively, so clearly that it at once becomes a handbook of inestimable value.

Concerning Lafcadio Hearn

By GEORGE M.
GOULD, M.D.

Price $1.50 net By Mail, $1.65

Few men in America were privileged to know Lafcadio Hearn so intimately as Dr. Gould. No work so clearly portrays the famous Greek's character, his personality, as this volume. It constitutes virtually a personal introduction to the man himself.

Trees in Nature, Myth and Art

By

J. ERNEST PHYTHIAN

Price $1.50 net By Mail, $1.60

The most original nature book of the year. It enters into the soul of the forest. It tells the story of the tree as it would tell the story of a man. It traces the life, the history, the utility of the tree—when it was worshipped, its place in Architecture, Painting and Sculpture.

DANTON and the French Revolution

By the HON. CHAS. F.
WARWICK

Price $2.50 net By Mail, $2.65

Marie Antoinette, Marat, Camille Desmoulins, Charlotte Corday—the men and women who stood in the glare of the Reign of Terror, live and breathe in these pages. Ex-Mayor Warwick has sensed a degree of interest which French historians themselves have failed to develop in the story of the Revolution. We see Paris in the grim days of dying Royalty, we hear the fall of the guillotine, we seem to fight side by side through the barricaded streets with the very men who directed France's struggle for freedom.

(Eleven Editions)

"The Princess Dehra" has the same light touch, swift action, quick art and repartee, sharp and unexpected climaxes, intrigue, sword-play, and danger, that have stood out so noticeably in the author's two former "best-selling" novels, "The Colonel of the Red Huzzars" and "Beatrix of Clare," but it also has the surer hand of the maturer writer, and the nicer appreciation of detail, and will, no doubt, be one of the most widely-read and talked-about romances of the summer.
